City versus schools

Tug-of-war for tax dollars rages in Romulus

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

A tug-of-war over tax money is developing between school and city officials in Romulus.

Director of Community Development Dennis Oakes and Superintendent of Schools Dr. William Bedell traded arguments regarding funds collected from three Tax Increment Financing Authority districts and the Downtown Development Authority district located in the city during a meeting last week.

Tax revenue, above that already generated at the time the TIFA and DDA districts were formed, is captured for public improvements within the district and is not shared with other entities, such as the local school district or the county.

The three TIFA districts in Romulus include Flynn Drive, Wick Road west of Merriman and Wahrman Road. The DDA district includes the area along Goddard Road between Wayne and I-275. These locations were chosen based on officials' assessment of future development in the area.

"We adopted the districts between 1984 and 1986 and have since captured substantial revenue in each of the areas," said Oakes. "We use the new tax base to add water and sewer systems and roads that will allow more development to occur."

Although the meeting on the subject was originally planned to simply refresh the minds of officials on the plan and to update them regarding progress in each district, a heated debate between city and school officials arose.

Oakes recalled that when the districts were adopted, school officials were present and in agreement with the plans.

"Now, they're telling us 60 percent of the money collected is theirs and that they want their share," Oakes said.

"When the TIFAs were first adopted, we were an in-formula school. Now we are out-of-formula and 90 percent of our income comes from property taxes," said Bedell. "Residents voted on a very high tax rate to support their schools and our number one priority is to give them the adequate school system they voted for."

"We deserve our portion of that money and if the city needs more to make improvements for development, that's between them and the taxpayers," Bedell said.

"But we are not obligated to give them any money," Oakes said. "The money is already allocated and the statute does not provide for the schools to have any of it."

No agreement was reached between the two entities at the meeting. Representatives of both the city and schools did agree to schedule another meeting to discuss the situation.

"There, we plan to view the financial needs of each entity and to again review the programs," Oakes said. "Hopefully, we'll be able to work something out that will suit both of our needs."

Noise battle begins

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus officials are taking a stand against the federal government when it comes to the airport noise issue.

In the city council meeting last week, Romulus Mayor Beverly McAnally brought it to the attention of the council that the federal government may change requirements for airports to bring aircraft up to Stage 3 compliance (less noisy) before the end of 1992. She said they're talking about moving that requirement date back to 1995 or 1997 and she doesn't intend to allow that to happen without a fight.

"We need to be vigilant about noise," she said.

For Detroit Metropolitan airport, Stage Three compliance would mean that airlines would have to purchase newly-manufactured aircraft or add a hush kit (retrofit) to existing ones.

McAnally said to stop the federal government from changing the deadline, the city may have to join with others to be heard. She suggested members vote yes to for the city to join the National Organization to Insure a Sound-controlled Environment (NOISE), an association of local governments whose mission is to reduce jet aircraft noise.

"I think the '92 deadline was reasonable and if we have to join with others to see that the deadlines not changed, I think it's incumbent for us to do that," McAnally said.

Councilmembers agreed and voted unanimously to become a member of the organization which is made up of elected officials from communities which are impacted by airport noise.

Although NOISE is not anti-aviation, members are anti-noise. They seek noise abatement by working at a national level for federal aviation policies that protect the rights of people living near airports and the powers of local governments to regulate land use around the airport.

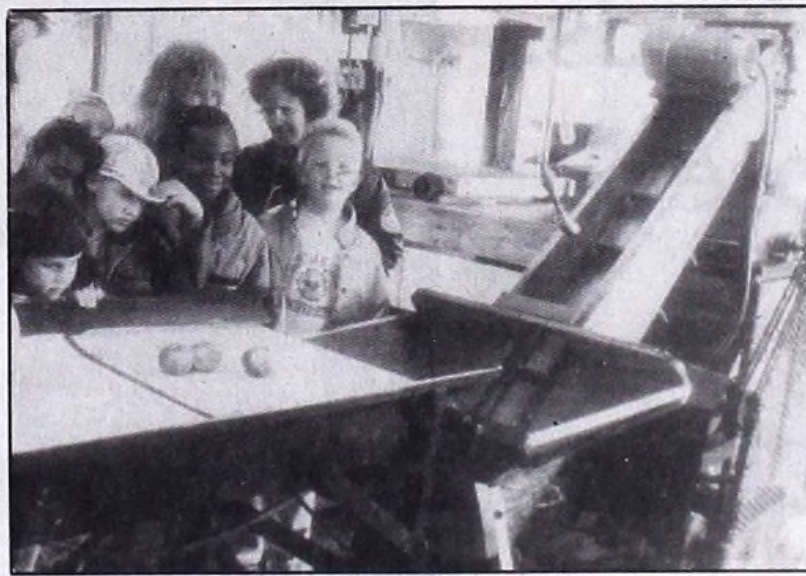

"We lobby Congress and the Administration on behalf of municipalities and have become recognized in Washington as the official voice of the cities and counties on the noise issue," stated Steve Cramer, president of NOISE. "We provide a forum for the exchange of information about what com-

Missing woman not found

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

The search continues for a Roseville woman who disappeared in Romulus without a trace Oct. 11.

Cheryl Sanders, 29, was last seen inside the Holiday Inn Hotel near Detroit Metropolitan Airport at about 2:30 a.m.

Family members and friends conducted a search throughout the area around the hotel this weekend but still came up with nothing.

"She had no money, no charge cards and no checks and she never called me, any of her other family members or her office," said her husband John Sanders. "We don't want to suspect foul play but it is totally out of her character to just leave this way."

He described his wife as an extremely reliable person. She was the district manager of the Portrait Corporation of America, home-based in North Carolina.

The evening of Oct. 10, she met with a co-worker and friend from a studio in Ohio.

"They met at the Holiday Inn because they both knew where it was and it has a nice lounge," John said.

He said they were there from about 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. at which time they decided to go to a club in Taylor.

"They were escorted out of that club between 2 and 2:30 a.m. by a friend of mine in the band," John said. "He told me that nothing unusual had gone on that night and he didn't see anyone following them."

The friend was on her way to return Cheryl to her car in the parking lot of the Holiday Inn when Cheryl asked to be dropped off in the lobby to use the restroom, her husband said.

"Her friend watched her go in and turn toward the restroom, then she left because she had to drive back to Ohio that day."

Cheryl was not seen leaving the hotel. Her truck was found later, still in the parking lot with the doors unlocked.

"It's so unlike her to leave the doors unlocked," John said. "She has a habit of locking the doors even when she's in the car."

The Romulus police still have no leads, but said they find no indication of a kidnapping.

Cheryl is described as a white female about 5-foot, 9-inches tall, weighing about 140 to 145 pounds. She has long light brown hair and was last seen wearing a white blouse with black blazer and black and white checked pants.

"I don't like to think that any type of foul play was involved and I pray to God that she's OK," her husband said.

Anyone with any information that could help to solve this case is asked to call the police hotline at 942-6882 as soon as possible.

Local students quiz candidates

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

Future voters will be quizzing council candidates in a Romulus High School sponsored program next week.

A brain-child of government teacher Rod Hanna, the session is being sponsored to connect the students to the community.

"I wanted to give the students a chance to meet the candidates—to learn their goals and aspirations—so that they can be better informed and experienced in what to look for when it comes time for them to vote," Hanna said.

The program, to be known as "Meet Your Candidates" is scheduled to begin with candidates arriving at 7:30 a.m. for breakfast at the "Eagles' Nest" school restaurant and then moving on to the school auditorium for the question and answer session which will begin at 8 a.m. Oct. 29.

"All the seniors will be in attendance and we've invited all their parents, junior high school council representatives, members of civic groups, members of the board of education, the Romulus Community Schools administrative staff and any other resident who would like to attend," Hanna said.

He said that all seven of the current council member and the five candidates seeking office are all expected to be in attendance.

"To begin the program, each candidate will be given two minutes to introduce themselves. They will then each be asked a different and unique question prepared earlier by the students. They will be given two minutes each to answer."

An open discussion with members of the audience will then follow and Hanna expects the session to end at about 9:30 a.m.

In addition to organizing this program, Hanna encourages the kids to get involved in what's going on in the city throughout the year by having them attend city council and school board meetings. He believes the hands-on training is important to give the kids a better appreciation of how their local government works.

"It's important that they be there to get to know their government and its functions hands on," he said. "It helps to push their citizenship and civic-minded responsibility."

Hanna expects strong attendance at the event which is open to the public.

Officials urge bond support by voters

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

Romulus police officers and officials from the Department of Public Works have joined hands with city officials in hopes that bond proposals for street and storm drain improvements are approved by voters Nov. 5.

"Bad pavement is more than an inconvenience," stated Romulus Police Chief Fred Dansby. "The Michigan State Police report that at least two accidents a day occur because of bad roads."

The two proposals will ask residents to approve bond issues for a total of 1.51 mills for road repair and storm drain improvement.

A mill is $1 for every $1,000 of the State Equalized Value of the home. The SEV is equivalent to one-half of the market value of the home.

With the approval of these proposals, "...the taxpayer will get a real bargain," said Mayor Beverly McAnally. "They will realize a better than four to one return on their investment because business and industry pays more than $4 for every one the resident contributes."

That brings the cost for the improvements to an estimated $1 per week to the average homeowner with a house worth $50,000, according to Romulus

County sponsors proposal

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Suburban Editor

A new project geared toward controlling tipping-fee costs for solid waste removal in western Wayne County communities and other areas of southeast Michigan is being proposed by the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority.

Recently CWCSA gave a presentation to Wayne councilmembers and residents highlighting the goals and benefits for the Central Wayne Air Quality and Energy Recovery project.

Rich Bauser, executive director of CWCSA, described the background for the project. "CWCSA has provided reliable, environmentally responsible services for more than 25 years," Bauser said. "However, CWCSA is now facing new challenges. The project plans to bring together public and private resources to provide important environmental, renewable energy and financial benefits to the southeast Michigan region. In other words, the Solid Waste Alternatives Program grant."

The challenges CWCSA faces include: the 1990 amendments to the Clean Air Act mandate improved air pollution control equipment; federal, state and county regulatory policies establish goals that require maximum recovery of materials, including waste-to-energy as an option and Michigan Public Act 2 of 1989, which requires utilities to purchase electricity from waste-to-energy projects, has a limited capacity and may not be available after 1991.

"A central objective is to control tipping fee costs for communities served by the CWCSA authority," Bauser said. "Without this project, tipping fees will escalate rapidly, because the authority would have to add expensive air pollution control equipment without the financial benefit of the Project Power Purchase agreement with the Detroit Edison Co."

Providing the grant requested will leverage the investments together with that of the State of Michigan in this solid waste integrated management facility, according to Bauser.

"If the project is successful, it will create a valuable model for the state and a true local and state success story," Bauser said. "The SWAP grant requested is necessary to ensure that the 225,000 residents served by the CWCSA and this project will continue their long tradition of advanced solid waste management and will address related environmental and financial challenges."

The project will integrate seven integrated waste components with the communities served which include:

- Waste Reduction Education (in conjunction with the Conference of western Wayne).
- Waste Reuse Education (in conjunction with the Conference of western Wayne).
- Recycling Drop-off Centers (which operate each Saturday are rapidly increasing the amount of material covered).
- Curbside Composting Programs, now successfully under way.
- Household Hazardous Waste Removal.
- Waste-to-Energy Generation and Sales of Electricity to Detroit Edison under 1989 Public Act 2.
- A Monofill Designed and Permitted in accordance with 1989 PA 52.

The three goals of the project include regional environmental benefits, regional renewable energy benefits and regional financial benefits.

Under environmental benefits, a three-fold process takes place. The first is to integrate the project with the CWCSA to maximize the achievement of the State Solid Waste Policy goals of waste reduction, reuse, recycling, removal of household hazardous waste and composting, now under way by the CWCSA members.

The second process under environmental benefits is to document the achievement of the state policy goals by the project and the CWCSA and its members through quarterly and annual reports to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources in fiscal years 1992 to 2002, under terms of the waste-to-energy SWAP grant agreement.

The third process is to upgrade the Air Pollution Control equipment at the CWCSA facility to comply with the 1990 Clean Air Act amendments.

The second goal, renewable energy benefits, includes design, finance, construct and operate an energy recovery system which uses the waste heat now generated at the CWCSA facility.

The process includes the following:

- Install a steamboiler system to capture the waste heat and create steam.
- Install a turbine generating system and electrical substation to convert the steam into about 18 to 25 megawatts of renewable energy.

There are four financial benefits for the project. The first is to sell the electricity to Detroit Edison Co. under terms and conditions of 1989 PA 2, the new Public Service Commission Act amendments. This new "stream of revenue" will provide financial benefits to the CWCSA, its members and others in the southeast Michigan region.

Slaying suspect

still sought

A 17-year-old suspect last seen at a Romulus party store is being sought in the Oct. 9 slaying of a Van Buren Township man in the Parkwoods Apartment Complex.

An argument between the suspect, Damon Williams, and the victim, Daryl Wayne Breeden, 27, escalated into violence and the suspect pulled a knife and stabbed the victim once in the chest, according to police.

Two hours later, Breeden was pronounced dead at Annapolis Hospital in Wayne.

After the attack, the suspect reportedly ran to the nearby Kirkridge Park Cooperative complex, where he obtained a ride to a Romulus Party Store from a resident, said police.

A tracking dog led police to Kirkridge Apartments where Williams obtained his ride. At this time, police say that they have no reason to believe that the driver of the car had any knowledge of the slaying.

Anyone with information which could lead to the arrest of the suspect is requested to phone the local police department.

Two men were awarded for saving the life of a fellow worker in Romulus last week.

Richard Beedle of Canton Township and Don Kemp of Allen Park didn't hesitate to come to the aid of fellow employee William Plemmons when a life-threatening accident occurred at the General Motors Powertrain Division of the Romulus Engine Operations Plant.

Plemmons, 44, of Milford had worked at the facility for 22 years when the accident occurred July 5, 1991.

He was loading a utility truck inside the plant and, while he wasn't looking, the truck came forward, crushing his leg with its frame, according to accounts of the incident.

"I was working at the end of the line when I heard him yell," said Kemp. "I looked up and saw the vehicle rolling down the isle and went to stop it—at the time I didn't know Bill was hurt."

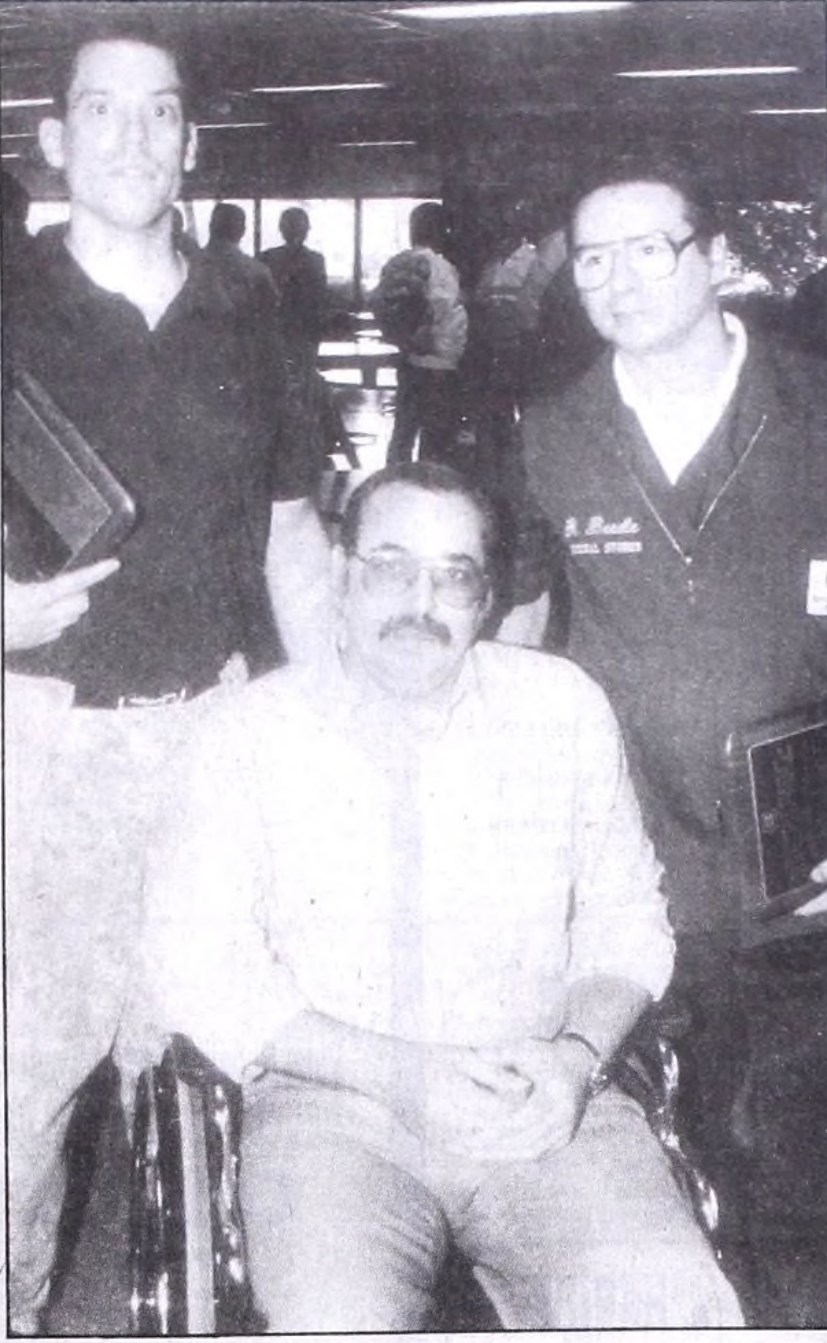

When Plemmons continued to scream, Kemp realized the seriousness of the situation and immediately came to Plemmons' aid.

The screams alerted Beedle, a 27-year employee from Canton Township. When Kemp yelled to him to call an ambulance, Beedle immediately complied and then ran to help Kemp with the injured man.

"As I approached him, I saw blood overflowing from his shoe and knew immediately that the injury was bad," Beedle said.

Plemmons left leg, just below the knee, appeared to have been the point of injury, the men said. Beedle quickly ripped the victim's pant leg the rest of the way down to determine the extent of the damage.

"The gash was about 4 inches long and 2 inches wide and he was bleeding profusely. We could see he had a severed artery and I doubted that his leg could be saved but I didn't want him to know that."

Urging Plemmons to let go of the pole he had been gripping, the two helped him to lay down, hoping to stem the blood flow.

"I then ran to get paper towels and applied pressure to the wound," Kemp said.

"I held Bill's head and kept telling him he would be all right," Beedle said. "I told him he had a bad gash and had lost a lot of blood but that he needed to remain calm and he did."

Losing about seven pints of blood even before in-house security and paramedics arrived, Plemmons never went into shock. When the ambulance arrived, he was transported to Annapolis Hospital and later taken by helicopter to the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

Unfortunately, medical experts were unable to save the leg below the knee.

Although he may never work at the Romulus Plant again, Plemmons is grateful to his fellow workers.

"They had to give me five pints of blood in the hospital and I'm sure if they wouldn't have stopped the bleeding I could have died," Plemmons said.

"They did a heck of a job and I'm grateful," Plemmons said.

Time change to act as reminder

By AMANDA WILSON
ANP Staff Writer

Fire officials estimate that although more than 85 percent of Americans now have smoke detectors, at least one-third would not work in an emergency.

Because of this statistic, Romulus fire officials have joined in a national campaign called: "Change Your Clock, Change Your Battery."

The program is designed to encourage people to make a habit of changing the batteries in their smoke detectors every fall when they change their clocks back to standard time. For 1991, the date of the time change is Oct. 27.

"Now when people set their clock back, we're reminding them to also change the battery in their smoke detectors," said Romulus Fire Chief William Greenslait. "Hopefully, this will begin to set in their minds so that it becomes a familiar act in the future."

Sponsored by the International Association of Fire Chiefs and Energizer Batteries, the program responds to a false sense of security that smoke detectors give American families, according to Chief Dave Hilton, president of the IAFC.

"It's tragic when you think that someone could die because they didn't have a working battery," he stated. "We want to do everything we can to spread the word about this critically important issue."

"Each year, 6,000 people are killed and 130,000 are injured in fires," Greenslait said. "We're happy to say that these numbers are currently going down but it's still important for people to know that working smoke detectors can double the chances of surviving a fire."

He said that many people mistakenly believe that the smell of smoke will wake them up if they're asleep, but in reality, smoke produces poisonous gases that can kill.

"If people are asleep and don't have a detector to wake them, chances are they'll be overcome by smoke or poisonous gasses and they may not get out," Greenslait said.

With this in mind, Greenslait and fire chiefs across the country are challenging residents to take responsibility for protecting their family from fire by keeping detectors in working order.

Following are three simple but effective steps to ensure your home is protected:

- Test your smoke detector at least once a month by pushing the test button or using an approved smoke substitute.
- 2. Change the batteries every fall when you change your clock back from daylight-savings time.
- 3. Clean your detector at least once a month with a vacuum cleaner. Dust and cobwebs can impair detector sensitivity.

In addition to fresh batteries, Greenslait reminds residents of Romulus to install at least one smoke detector on every level of the home.

He suggested placing them outside all sleeping areas and, on floors without bedroom, in living or family rooms.

Following are a few other installation tips given by the IAFC:

- Locate basement smoke detectors close to the stairway leading to the floor above. Don't install the detector at the top of the basement stairs.
- Avoid placing detectors in or near a kitchen. Nuisance alarms caused by cooking smoke prompt many people to deactivate them, leaving the household unprotected by a smoke detector.

Finance Director Donavon McGuire.

As an added incentive for a "yes" vote, Romulus Community Development Director Dennis Oakes said: "Not only will we pave our roads and streets and correct our drain problems, but will create construction jobs with these proposals."

If approved, officials said the process of planning for a new resurfacing and road reconstruction program will begin soon after the election. It will be the beginning of what many consider long-awaited improvements for the city.

"We have had to nickel and dime, and patch and scrape to try to provide decent roads for our residents and our drain efforts have been terribly time consuming with no real remedies because we couldn't afford to finish the job to make the drains work effectively," stated James Panos, director of public works.

"We anticipate the approval of both these important proposals," stated McAnally. "Not only will the improvements improve the quality of life of our residents, they will lower the costs of car maintenance and it will encourage others to want to live in and invest in our city."

"Some of our subdivision roads have deteriorated so badly in the past 15 to 20 years, they have to be virtually replaced," McAnally continued. "Special assessment was the only alternative we had until we began to think about a bond issue."

McAnally said that after meeting with U.S. Secretary of Transportation Samuel Skinner last year on issues related to road, drainage and economic development, she discovered that federal money is no longer available and help from Washington is a relic of the past. She said that Washington is now leaving it to the local governments to address the problems of deteriorating roads and drains and that is why the issue is being presented.

"We have to begin to plan for the coming years and maintaining and improving our infrastructure is where we have to start," said Oakes. "It is a priority for us to always strive to improve the quality of life of our residents and to ensure that the investment we make is one that we can maintain and protect for the future. Having a dedicated source of funding will give us that insurance."

"We are all very excited about the prospects of finally having enough resources to maintain and improve all of our roads and drains without having to special assess property owners for the improvements," McAnally said.

With the approval of the November ballot issues, work on the improvement of the infrastructure of Romulus could begin as early as next spring.

"If these proposals pass, the safety and quality of life for Romulus residents will be improved," Dansby said.

Partnership helps

further education

By AMANDA WILSON

For the fourth consecutive year, the Business Partnerships for Education Program is off and running and showing a great deal of success.

Romulus schools and businesses are again working together to ensure that children within the city get the best education possible.

"The program is going great in all the schools and we're pleased with our accomplishments," said Ed Clark, coordinator of the program.

Established in Romulus in early 1988 under the direction of Superintendent William Bedell and Kenneth Berlin, then president of the Romulus school board, the partnership began between eight businesses and schools. It has since grown to include more than 65 businesses.

The mission of the program is to form voluntary relationships between the schools and their communities for the purpose of educational improvement.

"And our businesses have been taking real good care of the schools," Clark said. "In many of cases, they've given a lot of the kids a once in a life time opportunity that they may not have otherwise had."

For example, he recalls one of the local restaurants providing fine dining for young kids. He said many of them had never been to a real nice restaurant before.

"The restaurant invited the kids, paid for their meals and even taught them some social etiquette - which silverware to use, etc. They got to dress for the occasion and really had a good time."

In some cases, the businessmen have visited the school, telling the children about their jobs and what will be expected of them in the work world. In other cases, the kids were invited to the job site to see for themselves what goes on.

"The teacher use the partnership as another teaching tool by setting up field trips with the local businesses," Clark said. "It helps youngsters to begin career decision-making at an early age."

The businesses have also made conference rooms available on occasion free of charge for the use of school meetings.

"Some have even made scholarships or incentive programs available to the students in addition to programs for the best teacher."

They have shown their appreciation to the teachers by offering them overnight stays in local hotels or dinners free of charge in area restaurants.

With the aid of the businesses, school officials have even had the opportunity to put together programs such as the Summer Mentorship Program which allows the children to work side by side with a professional in the career of their choice. Other programs of this sort include courses in career awareness, student motivation and the importance attendance and academic im-

HARVEST of VALUES

Local psychic reveals Westland museum is haunted

He's a tall man with a dark beard. He's strongly built and heavily muscled from long days of hard labor.

He's also been dead for several decades.

His presence was revealed last week when local psychic Elizabeth from The Psychic Connection paid an unannounced visit to the basement of the Westland Historical Museum on Wayne Road. Elizabeth, who uses only her first name professionally, had no doubts that the spirit of this man remains in the home, particularly when she held a book which had been stored in the lower level of the home for several years.

"While the book may not have belonged to him, or have anything to do with him, it has been in the home for many years and has somehow picked up the sense of his spirit," Elizabeth explained to her enthralled audience which included Westland City Council Liaison Joe Benyo and City Council President Tom Brown.

Benyo explained that he had been claiming the home held spirits for many years, but was being teased a bit about his contention of supernatural occupants of the home.

"I've been telling them," Benyo said, "there's a child here, perhaps two."

Elizabeth confirmed Benyo's theories but said that, as she went through the home, particularly the kitchen and attic, she felt or sensed the presence of two children, a boy about 4 and a girl about 7 or so with very long brown hair. In the attic, Elizabeth again sensed the presence of the children and noted that these were good vibrations and that she sensed no fear or animosity from them.

That was unlike her last experience with physical manifestations of the spirit world, she confided. Recently returned from a visit to Nova Scotia, Elizabeth toured an old home there which had attracted her curiosity.

"It was just one of those big old mansions that everybody would like to see. My friend that was my host and I contacted the real estate agent who said he would take us through."

"We got to the first stairway and about halfway up I felt something strike me in the chest, hard. I mean it hurt," Elizabeth said. "There I was, gasping for breath and everybody else was so busy looking around they didn't even notice."

"When I got their attention, I told them I had to get out of there. It was bad. Somebody must have fallen or been pushed down those stairs. It wasn't pleasant for me and I couldn't go back in," she said.

Elizabeth has had more pleasant experiences with spirits, too. The former owner of the home where she stayed on her visit, a woman named Daisy, gave her a hug when she visited the parlor. Her existence has been confirmed by the present owner of the home, also a para-psychology student.

"You know, this year at the Jaycees Haunted House on the grounds at Eloise, I had some trouble even going in. I just sensed something wrong as though someone had been killed and the body disposed of near there or something. At the full moon before we started working on the displays I went over and went around the place with sugar and salt to erase the negativity," Elizabeth said. She also commented that when the group had a haunted house across the street from Westland City Hall she had refused to go near it because of the bad feeling emanating from the place.

"But this place has no bad feeling in it," Elizabeth said of the museum. "I do sense a great sadness about the woman in this house. I think perhaps she died at a very young age, leaving her children. I sense some type of flu or virus that perhaps became pneumonia."

"There was more than one family here," Elizabeth said of the museum. "And I strongly feel they were from somewhere south of this area. Maybe Ohio," she mused.

Will visitors encounter the strong, dark man with the beard?

"That depends on how psychically sensitive they are," Elizabeth said.

According to Brown, interviewed later, she may have been correct in several of her observations. The home was built by Walter Felton in the 1860s and his first wife did die. He subsequently remarried and raised his family in the home. Oh, by the way, he was from Indiana.

Brown, however, somewhat discounts the ghost theories.

"The last time some of the women who work here insisted it was haunted because of the strange noises we came over and discovered two raccoons," Brown chuckled. "Of course, we didn't look in the basement."

Psychic Elizabeth inspects various items in the Westland Historical Museum for spiritual contacts. Elizabeth has had various experiences with finding spirits in old homes. ANP photos by Patricia Brown

Police offer trick-or-treat tips for Halloween

By MARGO DEWEY
ANP Suburban Editor

Halloween may be a time for children to have fun and dress up like ghosts and goblins, but it's also a time for children and parents to remember safety when trick-or-treating.

Wayne DARE (Drug Awareness Resistance Education) officer Don Gotham has devised a list of safety tips for the whole family. He has been visiting various schools, informing the children about trick-or-treat safety.

"I have separated the safety tips into four groups," Gotham said. "The groups consist of costumes, trick-or-treating, stranger danger and candy. Under costumes, I encourage the kids to wear bright-colored costumes at night."

If the costume is not very bright, place florescent or reflective tape on the clothing and trick-or-treat bag. Gotham asks parents to beware of masks' costumes that obstruct vision.

"Both the costume and mask should fit well and not be too tight or too long because if it is too long, the child could trip and fall," Gotham said.

Accessories should be soft and flexible, not sharp or pointed. Gotham recommends children carry a flashlight.

If the child receives cookies or popcorn, I encourage them not to eat it until their parents check the food out and they know who gave them the food.

— Don Gotham
DARE officer

When trick-or-treating, Gotham recommends the following:

- Always go with a group of friends.
- Get a parent to dress up and go with you.
- Cross streets at corners, not near or between parked cars.
- Stay on sidewalks.
- Start early, come home early.
- Set a time to be home.
- Stay away from animals, dogs or other pets.
- May want to go to homes with porch lights on only.

"If parents want to give out treats, they should turn the lights on for the children," Gotham said. "I also recommend children not to eat when they are walking because they could choke on the candy. Save the candy until you get home."

Gotham also recommends parents to teach their children never to go inside anyone's home, never go near a stranger's vehicle and to report any suspicious activity to the police.

Once the children arrive home with the candy, Gotham recommends the following:

- Don't eat any treats until you get home.
- Go over all the treats with your parents when you get home.
- Throw away any unwrapped candy or anything that appears damaged or tampered with.

TIPS FOR SAFE TRICK-OR-TREATING

- Trick-or-treat before dark.
- A mask obstructs vision so use makeup instead.
- Wear bright costumes with reflective tape so drivers can see you.
- Plan your route with your parents and select streets that are well-lighted.
- Cross streets at corners and look both ways before stepping off the curb. Never cross between parked cars or in the middle of the block.
- If there is no sidewalk, walk facing traffic well off the road.
- Parents or older children should chaperone young trick-or-treaters. Others should travel in groups.
- Adults should inspect all candy before it is eaten.
- Carry a flashlight so you can see and be seen.

Easy as pie

When the leaves turn red and yellow and the temperatures are crisp and cool, it's time for heart-warming, wholesome, homebaked treats.

Nothing seems to represent harvest time more appropriately than pumpkin pie, a favorite since the early days of our country. While not mentioned as being a part of the first Thanksgiving, pumpkins were raised by the Northeastern Indians and were introduced to the earliest settlers.

Pumpkins were boiled, baked, used in breads and dried by the Indians and many of their recipes were adapted for use by the Pilgrims and other early settlers. Still popular today are pumpkin pies, made from fresh or canned pumpkins.

One of the earliest recipes for pumpkin pie was found in a handwritten cookbook of Martha Washington. Included in a collection of Colonial day recipes are the following instructions for making pumpkin pie: Pare a pumpkin and take the seedy part of it out; then cut it in slices. Pare and core 25 apples and cut them in slices. Make some good paste with an egg and lay some all around the brim of the dish. Lay half of a pound of "good, clean" sugar over the bottom of the dish, and over that a layer of apples, then a layer of pumpkin and again until the pie is full, putting sugar between every two layers and all the remaining sugar on top. Bake it half an hour before you serve it. When the pie is cut open, put in some good, fresh butter to top it off, said the Colonial day cooks.

Modern versions of the recipe call for more precise quantities and instructions:

Pumpkin Pie

- 1-3/4 cups canned pumpkin
- 3/4 cup sugar, white or brown
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup evaporated milk
- 1/2 cup water
- Unbaked 9-inch pastry shell

Cook pumpkin in saucepan for 10 minutes until somewhat dry and slightly caramelized, stirring occasionally. Remove from heat. Blend sugar, salt and spices and stir into hot pumpkin. Beat eggs, add evaporated milk and water and beat into pumpkin mixture until smooth. Pour into pastry-lined pie pan and bake in at 450 degrees for 15 minutes, then reduce the heat to 300 degrees and continue baking about 45 minutes longer, or until pie tests done.

A perfectly baked pumpkin pie should not have wrinkles or cracks on its surface. Long, slow baking produces a shiny, smooth surface with true pumpkin color.

Protesters, community still at stand-off

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

Unless eleventh-hour talks can be scheduled, a standoff still exists between the Cracker Barrel Restaurant and the gay rights activists who have protested on the site for the past three Sundays.

Mark Loveless of the Michigan Lesbian and Gay Anti-Violence Project said plans are slated to continue the protest demonstrations at the Van Buren Township restaurant until the firm reverses its alleged anti-homosexual hiring policy and meets other demands of the coalition.

Western Wayne County Mutual Aid Pact communities remain on alert to respond to the expected demonstration today.

For the third time since the Sept. 30 opening of the Cracker Barrel Restaurant, gay rights activists and allied groups demonstrated last Sunday against the alleged anti-homosexual hiring practices of the newest restaurant in the 106-store chain.

"If they're here, we'll be here," said Van Buren Township Supervisor David Jakoces, referring to the determination of the Mutual Aid participant to continue to keep order at the restaurant.

Last Sunday, representatives of the 106-restaurant chain declined to meet with members of the gay rights protest. It has been the position of the company not to discuss their employment practices with the media or the protest groups.

"Because of the escalating demonstrations by the lesbian and gay community of southeast Michigan versus the supporters of the new Cracker Barrel Restaurant, law enforcement officials have attempted to put together a meeting between representatives of both groups to bring about a compromise before more serious conflict might begin," according to a statement issued by Mark Loveless. "The Cracker Barrel offended the gay community nationwide by sending a memo that all possible lesbian or gay employees were to be fired because they did not fit the Cracker Barrel image of an 'American family restaurant.'"

Loveless' statement said he and members of two other gay rights groups were prepared to meet representatives of the restaurant chain, but they claim the company backed out of the proposed meeting.

"Having no further hope of a compromise, the lesbian and gay attendees could only discuss some aspects of the demonstrations with police officials and make some recommendations for reducing inflammatory behavior by police," the statement continued.

Protestors have charged that the police attempted to provoke reactions from the demonstrators.

On the other hand, police have charged that protestors have mocked sexual acts in front of them and have attempted to provoke them by using obscene language, spitting on them and hurling dirt at them. A Mutual Aid officer reported witnessing a lesbian protestor simulating oral sex in front of a woman officer.

Jakoces acknowledged that some anti-homosexual hecklers have appeared at the site, and have traded insults with the protestors. However, police officers have been professional and used restraint at all times during the past three demonstrations, he said.

Seventy-five protestors appeared at the Cracker Barrel Restaurant in Van Buren Township Sept. 30 when the restaurant opened its doors. On Oct. 6, the number of demonstrators at the site doubled and seven people were arrested for disturbing the peace. The number of demonstrators increased to 200 on Oct. 13 and one arrest was made.

The Western Wayne County Police Chiefs Association, reported that costs for the special duty have cost $10,000 so far. According to terms of the Mutual Aid pact, each community bears the cost of sending its own officers to the aid of other departments.

Killer of attendant sought

She was a Northwest Flight attendant on layover in Detroit, awaiting a flight to her hometown, Minnetonka, Minn.

It was not the regular route for Nancy J. Ludwig, 41, who traveled on a shuttle bus Feb. 24 from the Detroit Metropolitan Wayne County Airport to the Hilton Airport Inn.

On Feb. 25, Ludwig was found dead in her hotel room about noon by a housekeeper. She was sexually assaulted and brutally stabbed to death, according to Romulus police. The Wayne County medical examiner stated Ludwig died after her throat was cut, according to Romulus Detective Lt. Kenneth Kraus.

"We are continuing our investigation of this incident," Kraus said. "An $80,000 reward is now being offered for any information leading to the arrest and conviction of the individual who killed Ludwig."

Police are looking for a white male, 5-feet-9-inches to 5-feet-11-inches tall weighing 140-to-155 pounds with light brown or dishwater hair. Witnesses have informed police the individual may have been wearing glasses.

The individual was last seen in the hotel parking lot entering a 1978-80 light brown or bronze Chevrolet Monte Carlo in good condition with white license plates.

"A witness said they may have seen someone leaving the hotel with flight attendant luggage," Kraus said. "Another flight attendant who was on the shuttle bus to the hotel with Ludwig said a man sat in front with the attendants."

Ludwig was a flight attendant for 15 years.

Anyone with information about the incident can call the Romulus Police Department at 941-8400 or 1-800-466-8477.

Critically Ill Patients Require Special Care

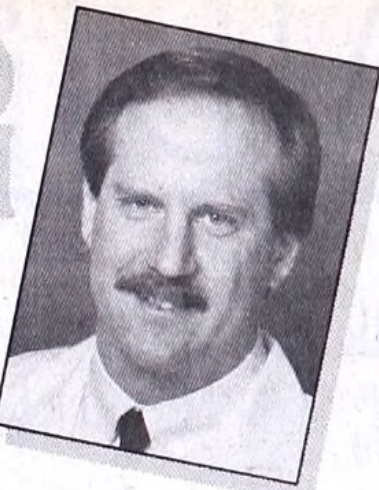

by Paul Haydon, M.D.

If you have visited a hospital intensive care unit (ICU) or emergency room, you've seen critical care medicine in action. Critical care is the medical specialty that treats ill or injured patients who require immediate treatment to prevent death.

Critical care affects everyone

It is estimated that 80 percent of all Americans will experience critical care firsthand, either as a patient or the family member of a patient. Critical illness and injury know no age, social, ethnic, or economic boundaries. Whatever the cause—heart attack, poisoning, pneumonia, complications after surgery, premature birth, or stroke—critical care treats the sickest of patients. It also includes trauma care: care of the severely injured due to vehicle accidents, shootings, or falls.

Critical Care can be practiced anywhere life is threatened—at the scene of an accident, in an ambulance, in a hospital emergency room, or on an operating room table. Today, however, most critical care medicine is practiced in intensive care, cardiac care, and intermediate intensive care units of hospitals.

Team makes the difference

ICUs are characterized by advanced technology, equipment, and procedures that literally keep patients alive. Technology, however, would be ineffective without the skilled, caring touch of physicians, nurses, and other health professionals who make up the critical care team.

Critical care physicians (intensivists) and nurses are specially trained and certified in the care of seriously ill patients, and are supported by respiratory therapists, physical therapists, technicians, and social workers to provide a total team effort.

The team works 24 hours a day caring for the special physical and emotional needs of critically ill or injured patients and their families.

Critical Care Week

Oakwood Hospital has designated November 4-8 as Critical Care Awareness Week. We salute all health care professionals who specialize in this important medical field.

More Detroit suburban travelers

The SPRING Newspapers' circulation more than doubles the daily suburban circulation of either The Detroit News or Free Press.

In fact, SPRING's suburban circulation is greater than the two metro dailies' combined.

And that's not all.

According to the 1991 Belden study, SPRING reaches more of the affluent suburban shoppers who have more—and spend more.

A matter of law

It wasn't a decision made lightly. It wasn't an effort to change minds or to interfere in the operating or managing of the school district. It wasn't an aligning of our opinion with one faction or another. Rather, it was an action we felt necessary to protect our ability to exercise the rights we all have as residents and voters.

As a newspaper, we do not have special rights or privileges that others do not share. Our access to information is no greater than that of any other citizen. The difference is that it is our job to exercise those rights that do exist under the law as representatives of our community. We are charged with the responsibility of keeping our readers informed.

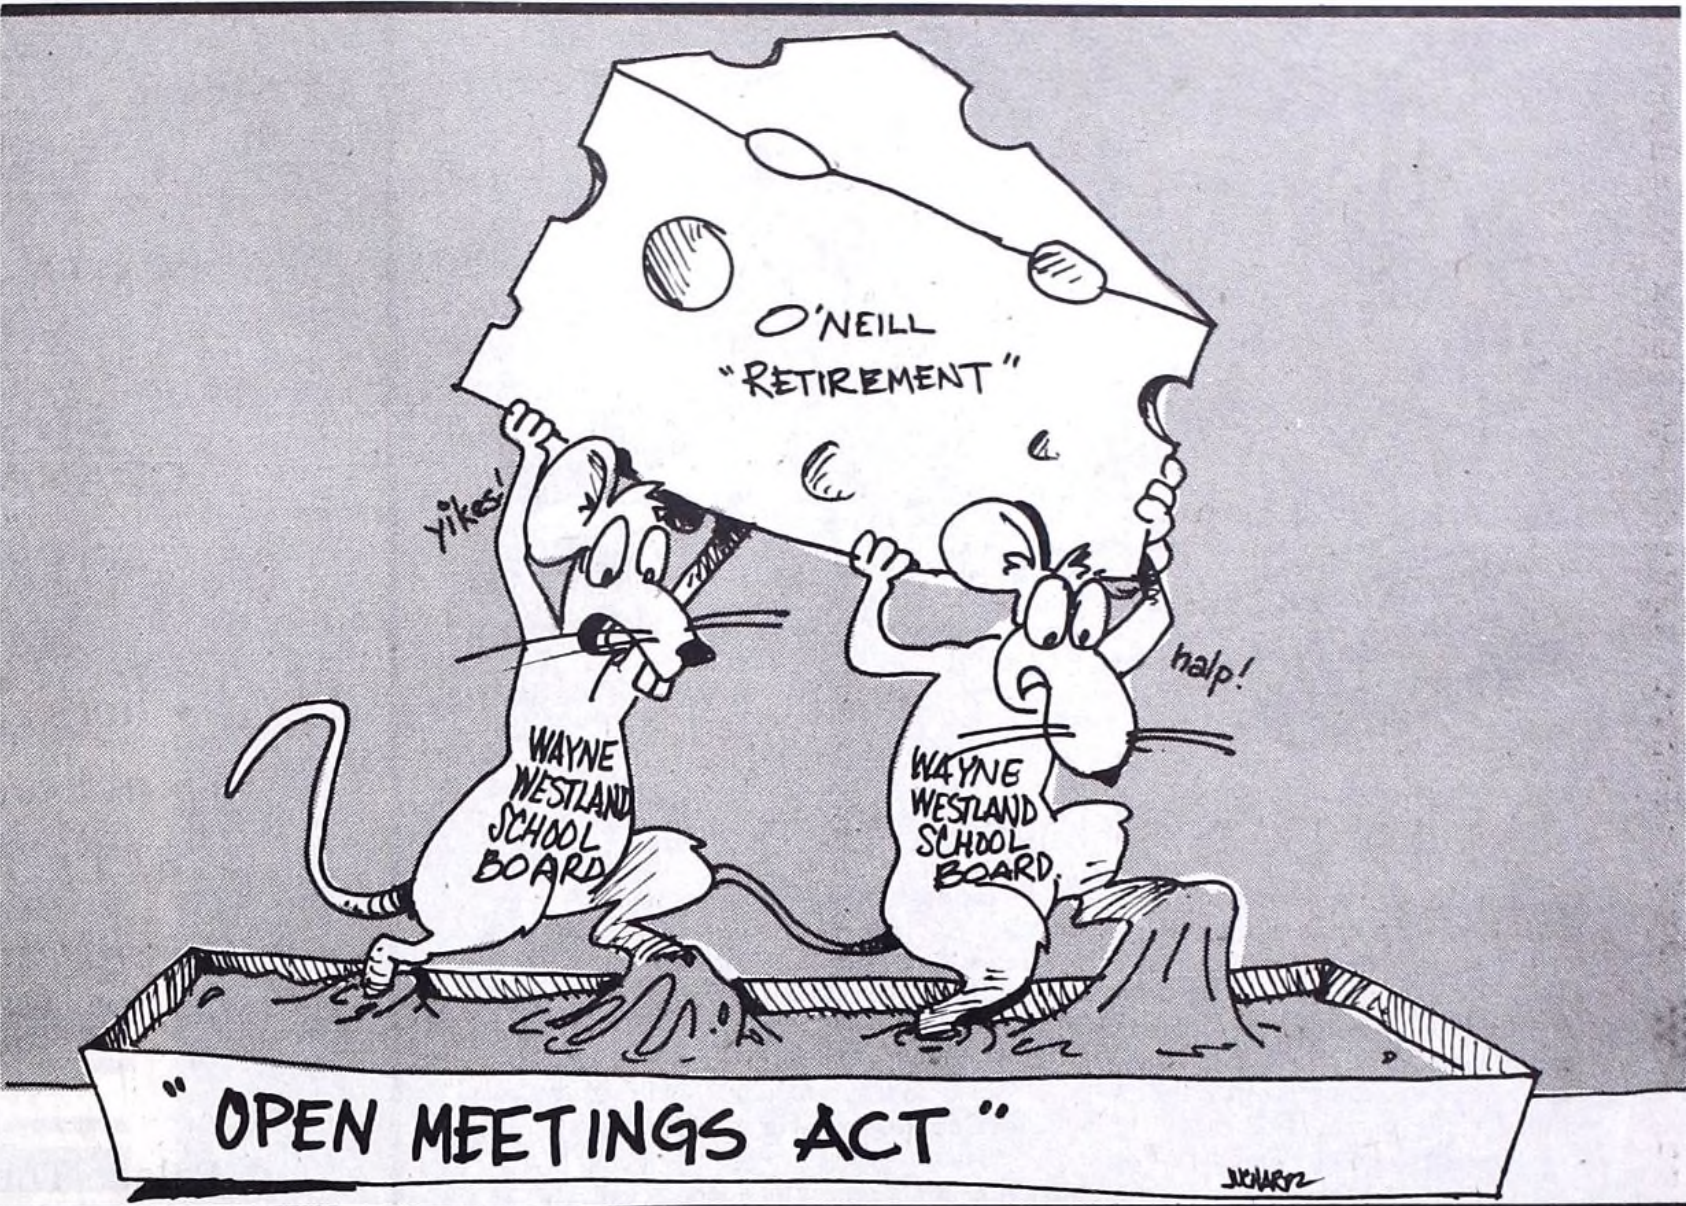

When elected officials disenfranchise us by attempting to circumvent or ignore the law in place to protect the rights of the public to information, it is our job to seek whatever redress possible under the law to correct that situation.

The law demands that individuals elected to represent the public on any council or board spending tax money make those decisions at public meetings which are posted at least 24-hours prior to the meeting.

When the president and vice-president of the Wayne-Westland school district marched into the office of the superintendent of schools summarily dismissed him without benefit of any posted meeting, open or closed, they violated the law.

They circumvented both the spirit and the letter of the law by taking action without benefit of an official meeting. What they did was not only illegal, it was insulting to the mantle of public service they campaigned so diligently to wear.

If this decision had been considered in the proper manner, we doubt that the outcome would have been different. But the fact is, we will never know.

Candidate responds to resident's letter

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to respond to the misinformation perpetrated by Flora D'Agostino, Oct. 20, 1991 edition of the Westland Eagle's letters to the editor. I will respond categorically.

- I voted to approve and fully fund an enhanced 911 system for the protection of the citizens of Westland. I voted to approve and fully fund the installation of on-board computers in police cars for the safety and protection of Westland police officers. I do not believe either of these decisions did anything to demoralize the police department.
- With regard to strip malls I wish you had listed specific locations. Instead you decided to paint with a rather broad brush and subject the readers to innuendoes and half truths. Or is this due to the fact that you do not have evidence to back up your charges?
- I voted in favor of a contract with the Westland Fire Fighters Association that provided full fire fighting protection for each fire station. This meant that when a fire fighting team arrived at the scene, they would have both fire fighting and rescue capabilities.

I would like to offer Ms. D'Agostino a little advice. Stop being a stooge for a special interest group. But if you want to continue as a stooge please get your facts straight. But most of

Candidate meets qualifications for office

To the editor:

I would like to respond to the letter which appeared in your newspaper on Oct. 20 signed by Flora D'Agostino. Since she supposedly stated her opinion which in my opinion was influenced by the mayor or his senior resource department director or her husband, I will not only give my opinion, but also facts.

The letter said that we should scrutinize the eight council candidates and goes on to "bad mouth" two of them. Why not check the voting record of sitting councilmembers? The so-called "improvement in city services" cost one big chunk of money. Is it worth it? I don't think so. Who has voted to spend this enormous amount of money? Some of the people you said are "proven leaders", that's who. Also, do you realize that seven of the eight people have run for office in the past, so all of these challengers are not "new."

Your attack on Bill Ziemba is sad. I'm not going into detail to defend him, he can do that. I thought Bill Ziemba did a good

Councilman's son wants a clean race

To the editor:

This letter is written in response to that written by Glen Shaw.

It is a sad state of affairs that politics in Westland have fallen to the level that they have. When a grown man attempts to have an impact on others by initiating a smear campaign centered around unsubstantiated claims.

I will admit that Mr. Shaw has assisted my family in various capacities in the past, but I had always sincerely believed that his actions were motivated by friendship. I was unaware that his friendship had a price. The price that Mr. Shaw appears to want my dad to pay is that of a yes-man, or of working for business interests rather than those of the city and its people.

It is not necessary for me to counter all of Mr. Shaw's slanderous charges. My father's record stands for itself. However, I would like to refute one of the charges that Mr. Shaw made about my father's character and behavior. My father has had political confrontations with the people mentioned in Mr. Shaw's letter. I ask you this, is not politics the proper arena for such confrontations over policy so that the will of the people is served?

Further, I invite you to read the attached newspaper article that contains comments made about my father by Westland's current Mayor, Robert Thomas, several years ago. (Letter to the editor praising Artley's motion's to reduce council members' salaries and mayor's salary when Thomas was president of Local 1602, union representing city workers.)

Now, you may believe that my defense of my father is motivated solely by the fact that I am his son. Yes, I will admit that did play a role in my deciding to write this letter to you. However, as a registered voter, I am also greatly disturbed by the kind of attack made by Mr. Shaw. Is this the state of political campaigning and action that prevails in Westland today?

It appears that Mr. Shaw is alarmed that my father may again have the opportunity to serve the people of Westland. However, I believe that if Mr. Shaw is so concerned about the politics of Westland he should reside in the city and "feel the pulse" of the residents of Westland just as my father does every day.

Firing superintendent could stop recall

To the editor:

Your recent editorial regarding the stalled recall of the citizens of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools led by Mr. Steve Lind needs more light and less heat.

Your paper tends to applaud

Kathleen Chorgagian for her wanting "unity" on the school board, and to castigate Steve Lind and company for his wastefulness amounting to $12,000 for a special election.

Your comment was that Chorgagian had already decided not to run in June, but you forgot to mention that two other board members who have been partners with her, will not be up for re-election in June. Furthermore, Chorgagian is remembered, by those of us with accurate memories, as the one who changed her mind at the last minute to give Dennis O'Neill a 4-3 vote of selection eight years ago. Since that time, she has arrogantly defended her mistake.

As far as the $12,000 goes, she wasted $12,000 for each of three elections in the past two years with ill-timed, ill-conceived, and unneeded millage elections seeing there was a $2.4 million surplus in June 1991.

Steve Lind has been quoted in the newspaper as saying that the purpose of the recall campaign, in part, is the firing of Dennis O'Neill.

The current school board could save $12,000 and a whole lot more, prevent the recall, and grant the wishes of the majority of the community by firing O'Neill now.

Of course, if the new board members do not have the courage to face the wrath and arrogance of the rest of the board and the administration now, they will have to face it after the recall.

Newborns

These days, "crack" babies

This year more babies will be born, premature and underweight,

Prep runners face regional obstacle qualifier

Belleville 2nd best in Wolverine 'A'

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

Local high school runners will face regional qualifying tests on Saturday at various sites throughout Michigan.

And in order to qualify for the state finals they have to finish among the top three teams at their respective regionals.

Although Belleville, which finished second to Monroe in the Wolverine 'A' Conference last week, realizes it has a rough road at the Riverview Highlands Class A regional, coach Dave Medley feels his Tigers have a shot at qualifying for state.

Medley said that Monroe is the inside favorite to win the regional and Adrian is a close second.

"However, that third spot is up for grabs," according to the Tiger skipper, "and I believe it will be a close call between ourselves, Dearborn, Bedford and Taylor Center.

"Our kids have a good chance at qualifying if they run well," Medley said. "But we're going to have to beat some fine teams to go."

As expected, state-ranked and undefeated Monroe ran away with the 1991 conference title. The Trojans swept the first five places en route to 15 points and a repeat of the performance last year. The champs were 40-points better than their closest rival, Belleville, which finished second with 55-points.

Trailing the top two teams in the conference were: Dearborn Fordson (93), Wyandotte (102), Trenton (140), Wayne Memorial (148), and Southgate Anderson (190). Because Lincoln Park didn't field a complete team its score didn't count in the final standings.

Three local runners were among the top 10 individual finishers and were awarded all-conference honors. The top 10 finishers included Matt Krupinski from Monroe - 16:10; Phil Laprad - 16:17; Andy Brittain - 16:57; Barri Pitchard - 17:04; and James Mall - 17:04; Gary Knowlton of Belleville (17:08); Troy Adams of Belleville (17:16); Aaron Simpson of Wayne Memorial (17:18); Skip Solcum of Monroe (17:22) and Mark Ebendich of Wyandotte (17:24).

Other Belleville runners whose scores were counted included Jason Kidwell, who finished 13th in 17:36; Dan Durham, who was 14th (17:37); and Mike Ryan, 15th, (17:37).

Wayne runners who finished included Marty Collyer, who was 25th (18:23), Mike Burge, 34th (19:18), Jeremy Treppa, 42nd (20:25) and Carl Olszewski, 45th (21:40).

'Worst of times' for John Glenn

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

These are the "worst of times" for Westland John Glenn runners.

With the Class A regionals only a few days away, the Rockets, instead of peaking to their best of times, are posting some of their worst, according to Glenn coach Jess Shough.

"I don't know what it is," said Shough, seeking an explanation for the Rockets' 19-44 loss at the hands of Westland Lakes Divisional foe, Farmington. "We ran our worst meet of the year. We better snap out of it because we have the conference and regional championships this week.

The Westland runners will join a score of 19 area teams to compete on Saturday for the Class A regional championships at Cass Lake. The top three teams and the top 10 individuals, excluding members of the qualifying teams, will earn a shot at winning state honors.

The loss to Farmington left the Rockets holding a 2-3 divisional record. They are 5-3 on the season, however.

Jeff Tapper, premier Glenn runner, suffered his first setback in dual meet competition this year when he trailed Dave Clinard of Farmington across the finish line. Clinard posted a 17:13 for the 3-kilometer trek, while Tapper followed in 17:24.

The Rockets also had the ninth-best runner in the field with Mark Coleman, who toured the course in 18:54. Jason Yanity was 11th (19:13) and Scott Szukaitis, was 12th (19:31) for Westland. The only other score that counted for the Rockets was Bob Lulek's 13th finish (19:32).

In the meantime, the Farm-

ington veteran-stacked lineup humbled the Glenn women's team 15-50. Tina Moore's eighth-place (23:32) was the best of the Rocket finishers.

The Western Lakes Conference championships were to be decided yesterday at Cass Benton Park.

Anderson no match for Wayne

Wayne Memorial swimmers received an unexpected "hot" reception at Southgate Anderson last week, and apparently that cooled some of the Zebra times.

However, it didn't stop Coach Randy Ferguson's swimmers from posting their third Wolverine 'A' Conference victory in five starts. With Tanja Dobrowolski, Dana Walls and Tiffany Morningstar each chalking up three victories, Wayne outswam Anderson, 113-62.

"The water over there (at Southgate) was warmer than usual," explained Ferguson, "and that led to slower times. We still managed to get a few good times, however."

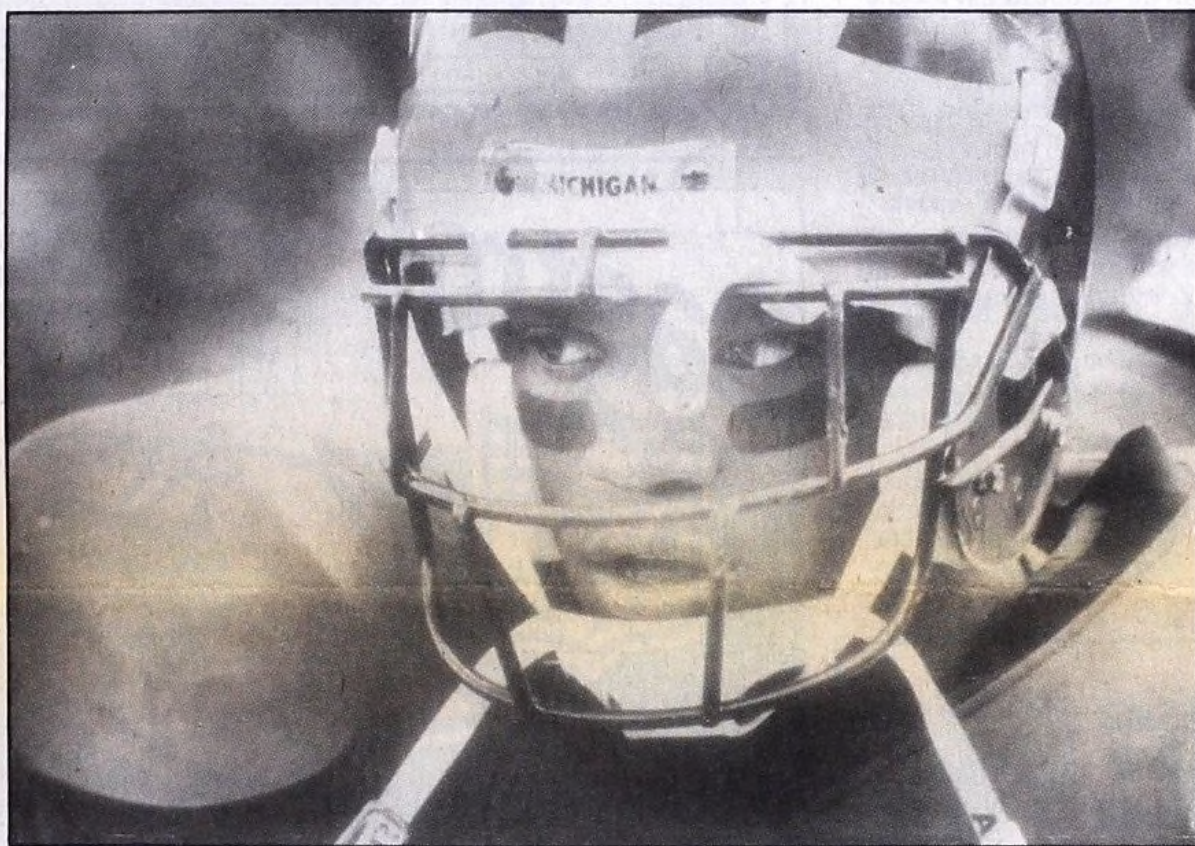

Wayne swept 10 of the 12 first places thanks to Dobrowolski, who won the 200-yard freestyle (2:29.0) and the 100-yard freestyle (1:08.2); Walls, who was a winner in the 50-yard freestyle (30.4) and the 500-yard freestyle (6:19.9) and Morningstar, who touched in first for the 200-yard individual medley (2:51.3) and the 100-yard breaststroke (1:25.2).

Wayne also placed first in the 100-yard butterfly thanks to Sue Cullen, who covered the distance in 1:17.3.

Wayne also received a pair of third places from Elysia Rodriguez, who turned in a 3:16.8 for the 200-IM and a 7:22.1 for the 500-freestyle. Shellie Gawne finished third in the 200-yard freestyle (2:39), giving the Zebras a 1-2-3 finish.

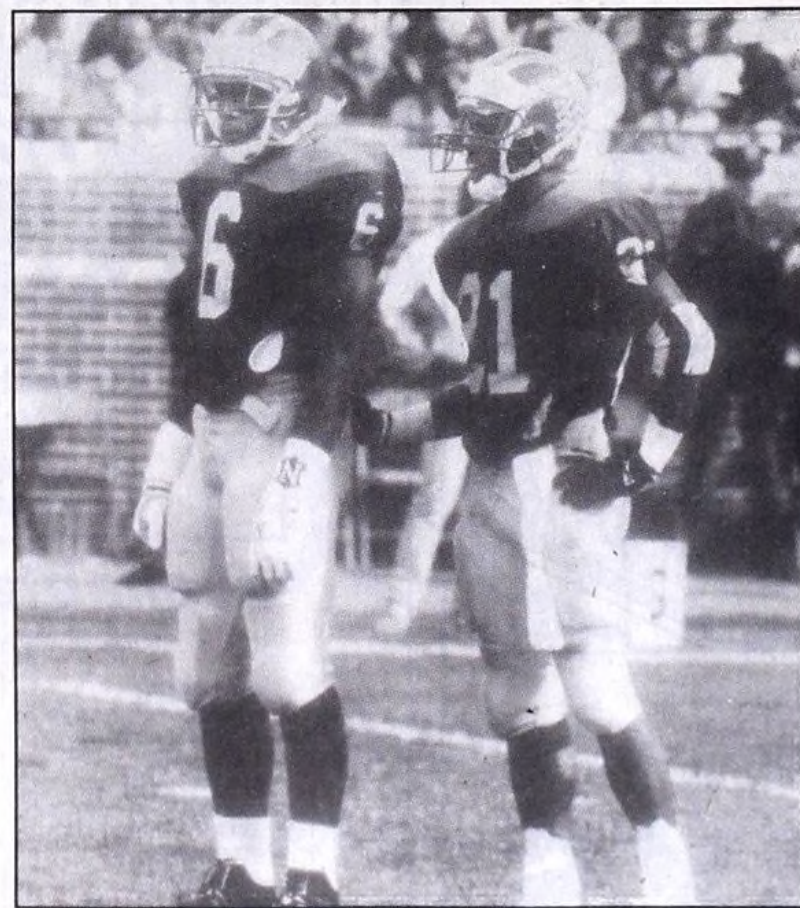

Wendy Gabony also contributed a third in the 100-breaststroke (1:30.7) to help the winners.

Wayne will be home to title-hopeful Monroe at 7 p.m. on Thursday. The dual meet will bring the curtains down on the regular season.

A star is born

Former Robichaud grid star Tyrone Wheatley (above) is looking good in a University of Michigan uniform and at Coach Gary Moeller as he prepares to enter the Indiana game Saturday. Wheatley carried the ball for a season-high 12 times and rushed for 59-yards and a touchdown in the Wolverines' lopsided victory over arch-rival, Michigan State, two weeks ago. However, he only saw limited action against the Hoosiers. ANP photo by Deanne DeYonker/staff photographer

Romulus places playoff berth on the block

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

There will be no hope of a post-season football playoff berth for Romulus High if the Eagles lose on Friday to Woodhaven.

"Friday's game at Woodhaven is a must for us," warned Romulus coach Dan Henry, after the Eagles lost a cliffhanger to Milan, 12-7. "In fact, we must win the last two games if we want to qualify for the playoffs."

It won't be easy for the Eagles who will meet Woodhaven, a 6-1 team, that also is coming off of a close 14-7 loss to Redford Union. Romulus heads to Woodhaven with a 5-2 record, a loss would leave it with a 5-3 mark. No team has made it to the playoffs with three losses in the regular season.

Woodhaven will have a homecoming crowd on hand in hopes of tipping the scales in its favor. And the Ravens also can't afford to lose another game and hope to reach the playoffs.

Romulus discovered the hard way just what a homecoming crowd can do to a team. The Eagles saw a rallying Milan team come up with the decisive touchdown in the final quarter, then hold off the visitors who came within a couple of yards of pulling out the victory in the last seconds.

Milan managed to put together a 59-yard drive that ended with Lem Hopkins' two-yard TD run. Hopkins also accounted for the winner's second touchdown, a 1-yard score.

Romulus took a 7-6 halftime lead when quarterback Bob Bergeron put together a 60-yard, 12-play drive that culminated with an 8-yard scoring pass to tight end Joe Kusibab.

Jon Deverieaux broke the six-all deadlock with his successful boot of the point-after.

In the waning minutes of the fourth quarter, Bergeron again got his team moving with a couple of crucial passes that went to Kusibab and Rob Thompson. He pulled those off on fourth-and-five situations.

"We managed to convert on three fourth-down situations," Henry said, "and were right there knocking. We had three seconds to execute one play and it didn't go."

Henry said that "it was one of the most exciting games the kids have been involved in for some time. In fact, those fans were standing on edge most of the final quarter."

"And, despite the loss, we are very proud of our kids and the way they played," Henry

Thornton tackles 29

Former Westland John Glenn football star Eric Thornton is continuing his grid heroics at Grand Valley State University where he is a member of the varsity squad.

Thornton, a 6-1, 224-pound junior defensive end, has seen considerable action this season, registering 29 tackles with two for losses and one sack of the quarterback.

The Lakers, under first-year head coach Brian Kelly, are 4-2 for the season, including a win over defending champion North Dakota State.

Inkster is next Undefeated Robichaud wins share of Suburban Conference title

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With a share of the Suburban Athletic Conference football title safely stashed away, Robichaud needs one more victory to claim the 1991 SAC championship outright.

And the final conference opponent standing between Coach Bob Yauck and the Bulldogs championship trophy is none other than natural rival, Inkster. Inkster can and has caused the Bulldogs problems in the past, according to the veteran Robichaud coach.

Yauck pointed out "that the Vikings have everything to win and nothing to lose in this game."

"It's one of those games where you can toss out records. They don't mean much when it comes to cross-town rivalry because there are bragging rights at stake here, and believe me, they (Inkster) would give anything to come in here and spoil it for us," Yauck said.

It also happens to be homecoming at Robichaud.

Inkster dipped to 1-3 in the SAC and 2-4 overall after the Vikings were scalped by the Oak Park Redskins.

Game time for the Robichaud-Inkster contest is 4 p.m.

In the meantime, Robichaud is proving that it has an offense to go along with its superb defense. The Bulldogs, after living off its defense for the first four games, have suddenly come alive. They merced the Flyers, 55-6 in their latest outing. However, the Flyers led briefly during the abbreviated game called after Robichaud had built a 45-point spread midway in the final quarter.

But it was Willow Run that got on the scoreboard first. Robichaud quarterback Tom Massey fumbled at midfield in the second Bulldog series and the ball was scooped up by Rocky Boone who raced 45-yards into the end zone to give the Flyers a 6-0 lead.

After that, it was all Robichaud.

With 2:47 left in the opening quarter, Michael Orsette capped a 55-yard drive with a 4-yard off tackle TD plunge. The Bulldogs failed to convert, leaving the score tied at six-all.

Then, with 7:28 on the clock in the second frame, Robichaud struck again. This time Massey found his way through the Flyer defenses from 8-yards out, making it a 12-6 ball game. The Bulldog QB also came up with the two-point conversion.

Then, with 5:27 left in the initial half, Massey and Kevin Bradley combined on a 43-yard pass-run touchdown play, and when Gary Phillips booted his first of two point-after, the champs were off and running.

With a comfortable 21-6 margin at halftime, the defending champs didn't rest on their laurels. Orsette got the Bulldogs on the scoreboard early in the third period on a 10-yard jaunt. That was set up by his 22-yard, around end dash.

Two minutes later, with 8:20 left, Orsette put on a dazzling display of open field running as he raced 38-yards for a touchdown. Phillips chipped in with the two-pointer after a bad snap from center.

Lawrence, who scored on a 17-yard run, and Massey, who also hit Revin Holt on a 16-yard TD pass, made the Flyers vulnerable to the mercy rule.

And when Bradley intercepted to set up Ahmed Haidar's 3-yard touchdown run, it was all over.

Orsette had his best day in a Robichaud uniform as he rushed for 144-yards on 22 attempts and three TDs. Massey was four of nine for 119-yards and two TDs.

Holt was superb on defense. He counted 17 tackles, including two sacks of the quarterback. Jamal Bohannon also had an excellent game on defense while Steve Gill, a cornerback, added to his interception total. He picked off two more aerials to bring his total to six on the season.

Glenn cashes in on opportunities to rip Farmington

By TERRY LYNCH
ANP Special Writer

When opportunity knocks, open the door.

That's what the John Glenn Rockets did last Friday night in their 28-6 victory over the Farmington Falcons.

Using a balanced offensive attack, a stingy defense, and the opportunities that they were given, the Rockets kept their playoff hopes alive with a strong effort at Farmington.

The win improved Glenn's overall record to 5-2, 3-2 in their conference. Farmington dropped to 3-4 overall, with a 2-3 mark in conference action.

Offensively, the Rockets benefited from a balanced blend of pass and run which included touchdowns by four different runners.

Senior quarterback Terry Hower led the passing game by hitting seven of 12 passes for 84 yards.

In the first half, neither team could seem to take advantage of the generosity of their opponents.

Farmington was an overly gracious host, fumbling four times. But Glenn, acting like a guest to shy to accept hospitality, only capitalized on one.

Rocket senior Rick Bennett picked up a Falcon freebie on the Farmington 37 yard line with 1:06 left in the first quarter to set up Glenn's first score.

Bennett's hands again found the ball when he caught a 19 yard toss from Hower taking the Rockets to the Falcon seven.

Senior running back Ed Jenin finished the drive when he punched it in from the four.

The extra point missed the mark, but the Rockets led 6-0.

Midway through the second quarter, senior John Ward picked up another loose ball at the Glenn 19, but the Rockets failed to capitalize.

Glenn threatened again just before halftime, moving the ball to the Farmington 22, thanks to a big 34 yard burst by senior Tad Quattlander.

But Hower was intercepted by Falcon David Monge, who rumbled all the way to the Glenn 37.

The Rockets defense decided that when it comes to turnovers, it is better to receive than to give, so Rocket cornerback Gary Chmiel picked off senior Falcon quarterback David Lixh's pass on the next play.

At the break, the Rockets led 6-0.

The Rockets took full advantage in the second half racking up three more touchdowns, thanks in large part to four more Falcon fumbles.

Glenn clicked in the third quarter with a 64 yard, 14 play drive that consumed over eight minutes.

Hower had a big strike to Senior Aaron Scheffer in the drive to take the Rockets to the Farmington nine yard line.

The drive ended, as have many this year, with Quattlander punching the ball through for a touchdown, this time from the four.

Hower hooked up with senior John Ward for the two point conversion when Ward made a fine catch falling out of the corner of the end zone.

The Rockets led 14-0.

In the fourth quarter, more of the same as Rocket Tony Grieb intercepted a Link pass at the Farmington 25.

Ward capped the drive with a four yard score of his own.

Kicker Chris Bandy hit the extra point making the score 21-0.

Everyone got in on the act. Late in the game, Rocket reserve quarterback John Miller handed off to senior Grayson Story four consecutive times.

Story scored Glenn's last touchdown on another four yard run, and Bandy added a point to leave it at 28-0.

With less than 10 minutes to play the Rockets were hit with three straight penalties leaving the Falcons in scoring position at the Glenn 11.

Farmington back-up quarterback Matt April hit David Liszewski for a last second touchdown.

An attempt for the two-point conversion failed setting the final score at 28-6.

The Rockets will attempt to keep their playoff chances afloat when they host Walled Lake Central Friday night in a Western Lakes Activities Association play-off game.

Wayne loses heartbreaker

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Staff Writer

With senior quarterback Jason Wetmore sidelined with an injury, the Wayne Memorial offense sputtered and died against Southgate Anderson Friday night.

"We just didn't have the offense," said Wayne Coach Chuck Howton, after the Zebras dropped a heartbreaker, 14-6, to their Wolverine 'A' Conference rivals.

"We had possession of the ball for 36 plays on offense as compared to 60 for Anderson. And when you have that kind of disparity, you're not going to win many games."

Southgate, a team that had been struggling in the early phases of the season, has bounced back to win three straight. Against Wayne, Anderson got on the scoreboard midway in the first quarter when senior QB Dave Vanhof hooked up with wide receiver Vic Felicia for a 39-yard touchdown pass. Vanhof also booted the extra point, giving the winners a 7-0 lead.

Before the quarter ended, Wayne was on the scoreboard thanks to Eric Bates and Johnny Ballard.

Ballard blocked a Southgate field goal attempt, and Bates scooped up the ball and raced 64-yards into the end zone for a touchdown. However, Wayne missed its point-after, leaving the Zebras one-point shy of tying the score. It was the first and only scoring opportunity that Wayne had all evening.

Southgate came up with some insurance when Vanhof again went to the air routes and found halfback Ken Johnson for a 17-yard TD strike. That sealed the fate of Wayne.

Johnson played havoc on the Wayne defense as he led the winner's ground assault with 136 yards on 22 carries.

Wayne's top rusher was Bruce Calhoun, who had 12 chances and piled up 60 yards.

Wetmore is also on the doubtful list for the Friday night conference finale against Monroe. The Zebras will host the 7:30 p.m. game.

"At this point we don't know whether Wetmore will be ready to go," Howton said. "It's a waiting game."

Howton added that Monroe has improved "plenty" since the beginning of the season.

"They were our bright spots in that game," Howton said. "They will have to also play an outstanding game if we are to stop Monroe Friday night."

Howton singled out linebacker Jason Boden, defensive end Calhoun, Bates, a tackle and Durank Forrest for their exceptional play against Southgate Anderson.

"They beat up on Belleville pretty bad last week, and Wyman Jones, their running back, is greatly improved. It will be a challenge for our defense to stop him. It should be an interesting game."

First and foremost, Halloween is the day of trick-or-treaters, the day when costume-clad youngsters trek from door-to-door to fill their bags with treats. But, almost as popular with the children are pre-Halloween visits to haunted houses and forests for the sole purpose of being scared silly.

• Haunted Theatre, 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Sunday through Thursday and 7:30 p.m. to midnight on Friday and Saturday at the Palace Theatre in Wayne. Proceeds from the event will go toward the restoration of the theatre. • Haunted Forest at Van Buren Park, 7 to 10 p.m. Thursdays through Sundays until Oct. 27. • Haunts of Eloise at 7 p.m. through Oct. 31, sponsored by the Westland Jaycees. • Children's Halloween Party, Oct. 6 at Canton Recreation Center for residents only. Call for reservations, 397-5110. To help make Halloween for youngsters this year, Continental Cablevision has joined with the National Crime Prevention Council to provide free trick-or-treat bags to area youngsters. The bags, containing safety tips, are available at the office which is located at 2800 South Guley Road, Dearborn Heights.

Before children begin their trick-or-treating on Oct. 31, there are some tips to consider for keeping the holiday safe as well as enjoyable:

- Encourage a buddy system. Do not allow children to go trick-or-treating alone.
- Limit trick-or-treating to the homes of people you know, and stay on well-lit streets.
- Pin a name and address on small children in case they become separated from their buddies.

- Assign an adult or responsible teen to accompany every group of children.
- Be sure costumes are made of nonflammable materials and are light in color so they will be visible to motorists. Also, be sure costumes are short enough to prevent tripping and avoid masks which obscure vision.
- Check treats before the children eat them. Discard unwrapped or partially wrapped items.
- Be aware of activities sponsored by schools and churches which will provide a safe environment for Halloween celebrations.

The following events are scheduled on Halloween night only:

- Trick or Treat at Westland Center stores, 6 to 9 p.m., with free treat bags and photos provided.
- Storytime/Treats in downtown Belleville. Scary stories will be told at 5 p.m. at the Fred C. Fischer Library, followed by trick-or-treats from downtown merchants and refreshments at the Fourth Street Mall.

Tax proposals could reduce services

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
Belleville City Editor

If massive property tax cutbacks are approved, accompanying cutbacks in state programs are certain for Michigan residents, according to one state legislator.

"We see the chaos that has resulted from the $300 million cuts from the $1.5 million state budget. Where would we find $1.5 billion to make up for tax breaks which have been proposed?" said State Rep. James Kosteva.

Although three state tax reform bills have been proposed, Kosteva believes only the one which provides a tax exemption on the first $30,000 of home market value is feasible.

At the Oct. 14 meeting of the Van Buren Public Schools Board of Education, Kosteva said the Headlee and Engler proposals would slash too much money from the state coffers.

"The Headlee proposal to cut property taxes by 20 percent for business, commercial residential and industrial taxpayers would cost the state $1.5 billion. The proposal by Gov. (John) Engler to cut operating taxes by 30 percent would result in $1.5 to $2.5 billion in lost revenue," Kosteva told the school board members.

"The legislature has had to cut $300 million from the current budget, and we are operating on a budget less than that of last year," Kosteva said. "Every reduction hurts people. Seniors have literally had oxygen pulled from them. Some 80,000 to 90,000 general assistance recipients have been cut from the welfare rolls. Many of these are single or divorced women, one-third are the fail elderly and most of them have never held jobs."

The Michigan Homeowner Tax Break, which Kosteva supports, would exempt the first $30,000 of a home worth more than $60,000 from school property taxes. If the value of the home is less than $60,000, 50 percent of its market value would be exempted from school property taxes.

Kosteva said no cutbacks in school services would result, because the funds would be replaced by repeal of a business tax and abatement.

The full benefit of the tax break would take effect immediately, and the Homestead Property Tax credit formula would still be available to those who qualify, the legislator said.

Two business tax breaks would be repealed to make up for the loss of property tax revenue, Kosteva said. The Capital Acquisition Deduction would be repealed along with industrial property tax abatements, which total some $1 billion annually.

Kosteva believes that by putting nearly $1 billion back into the pockets of Michigan homeowners through the adoption of the Michigan Tax Break, the average middle-class family will have about $500 more to spend annually. The goods and services purchased with the additional funds could spark the economy, the representative said.

If 205,166 registered voters sign petitions to initiate the Michigan Homeowners Tax Break, the legislature will have 40 session days to enact it, and authorize the tax break to go into effect on Jan. 1, 1993.

TRAVEL TIPS

If you're looking for a reasonably priced vacation spot with great beaches, wonderful food, excellent hotels and all kinds of water sports, I'd like to recommend Cancun.

This Mexican resort continues to grow by leaps and bounds, and each new hotel adds more rooms to a resort which has always been short of space during the winter season. Cancun is especially popular because of its crystal clear waters and the soft white sand beaches which are more like the Caribbean than Mexico. The prices, however, are strictly Mexican!

Most resorts hotels are located on Cancun Island which is connected to the mainland by two bridges. The city is where the business district is located, but you'll also find markets, restaurants, shops and sidewalk cafes. Reasonable taxi fares make it easy to get around and for those who aren't in any hurry, buses are readily available.

The Mexican government rates all hotels throughout the country and the categories are Gran Turismo, Five Stars, Four Stars, Three Stars, Two Stars and One Star. Cancun certainly doesn't lack accommodations in any of the first three categories and you'll be surprised just how affordable luxury can be. Most hotels have full water sports facilities, excellent restaurants, atmospheric, open air bars and some type of entertainment.

This vacation paradise is only 20 years old, a creation of the Mexican government, and it has been popular since its inception. Sound appealing? Just give us a call for information.

Deborah Mae Nyquist and David Bradley Aro were united in marriage during a double-ring ceremony at 3 p.m. June 22 at Holy Redeemer Lutheran Church in Marquette.

The bride is the daughter of Bruce and Cynthia Nyquist of Marquette. The groom's parents are Richard Aro of Garden City and Norma Aro of Westland.

For the nuptials, the church was decorated with with garland from pew to pew and the communion rail was adorned with garland and yellow roses and orchids. Dawn Betts was the organist and Pastor Paul Weber officiated at the rites witnessed by 150 guests.

For the wedding, the bride chose a white satin gown with a full skirt and a 6-foot train, and heavily beaded bodice. She carried white roses and white orchids with ivy.

Matron of honor at the ceremony was Brenda Lasecki of Villa Park, Ill. She wore an emerald green, floor-length satin gown and carried yellow roses and white orchids and ivy.

Bridesmaids included Lisa Holtz of Lima, Ohio, Catherine Blodgett of Pontiac and Lisa Wing of Valparaiso, Ind. They wore gowns similar to that of the matron of honor and carried matching floral arrangements. All wore yellow roses and ivy in their hair.

Jeffrey Pestruie of Standish performed the duties of best man at the service.

Groomsmen included Michael Jones of St. Joseph, Thomas Fowler of Canton Township and Matthew Aro of Westland, a brother of the groom.

All wore formal black tuxedos as did the ringbearer, Aaron Swanson of Ishpeming, a cousin of the bride.

Amber Swanson of Marquette, also a cousin of the bride, acted as flowergirl at the ceremony. She was gowned in the same manner as the other bridal attendants and carried matching flowers.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a black and white dress suit. The mother of the groom wore a knee-length light blue dress.

Following the service, the couple was feted by 350 guests at a reception at the Ramada Inn in Marquette. Music was provided by the Union Pacific, a band from Ishpeming. Decorations included flowers and candles at each table.

Ford looks to Mustang and Crown Victoria for success

Mustang—America's original "Pony" car and a perennial favorite among performance enthusiasts—continues to offer high performance and remains the value leader in the small-specialty segment.

Enhancement for 1992 include color-keyed bodyside molding, bumper strips, a four-way power driver-seat option and two new bright colors—Bimini Blue and Calypso Green.

"The Mustang LX buyer is a value-oriented driver who wants a stylish, fun-to-drive, sporty vehicle," said Ross H. Roberts, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager. "GT and LX 5.0-liter buyers are driving enthusiasts who want the performance and handling or rear-wheel drive coupled with a V-8 engine."

GT and LX 5.0-liter models feature 16-inch five-spoke aluminum wheels. P225/55ZR16 BSW all-season performance tires are standard on the LX 5.0-liter and optional on the GT. The popular convertible has a minimal top-down stack height for a clean, attractive appearance.

"Performance is what the Mustang has always been about," Roberts said. "And, Mustang will continue to deliver driving excitement for new-car buyers in 1992."

Powertrain availability includes a 2.3-liter four-cylinder engine with electronic fuel-injection and a 5.0-liter HO (High Output) V-8 engine. Both are available with either five-speed manual or four-speed overdrive transmissions.

Standard Mustang equipment includes a driver-side supplemental air-bag, power front-disc brakes, front- and rear- passenger shoulder seat belts, a modified MacPherson-strut rear suspension, a rear spoiler, low-back reclining bucket seats with headrests and an electronic AM/FM stereo radio with four speakers.

"In 1992 our strategy with the Mustang is to continue offering price and value advantages over our competition," Roberts said. "It's a strategy that's worked for nearly three decades, and we believe it will be a winner for the 1990s as well."

Crown Victoria

A new Touring Sedan, which combines the roominess and comfort of a luxury car with the handling and precision of a European sports sedan, is added to the 1992 line-up of Ford's popular Crown Victoria line-up.

"This special edition is a high-value six-passenger car with precise handling, exceptional interior and trunk space and a new, more efficient, 4.6-liter, 210-horsepower engine," said Ross H. Roberts, Ford Motor Company vice president and Ford Division general manager.

Functional features of the Touring Sedan include a high-performance overhead cam V-8 engine, anti-lock brakes with traction assist, performance tires and a touring suspension with special springs, shock absorbers and anti-sway bars for flatter cornering.

Additionally the Touring Sedan features contemporary styling, distinctive cast-aluminum wheels and unique interior appointments including standard cloth-and-leather seats.

In the first major redesign of Ford's full-size, four-door family sedan since 1979, Ford softens the Crown Victoria's lines to create a sleeker, more aerodynamic car. The new design includes limousine doors, flush glass, body-colored bumpers and a sculptured hood.

Crown Victoria owner yet includes the contemporary styling and vehicle dynamics that are keys to capturing a new generation of full-size prospects."

Inside the 1992 Crown Victoria, drivers will find an environment of luxury. The front doors and instrument panel have been designed to flow together in a wraparound style which enhances the spaciousness of the interior.

Controls have been designed, positioned and labeled in a conscious effort to reduce confusion and simplify operation. For example, a ledge beneath the radio offers a natural resting spot for fingers while adjustments are being made—a feature especially helpful in a moving vehicle.

Standard equipment on the Crown Victoria includes a driver-side air-bag, four-wheel disc brakes, child safety latches on rear doors, 4.6-liter, SEFI, overhead cam V-8 engine, tinted glass, clearcoat paint, front and rear stabilizer bars, all season BSW tires, air-conditioning and an AM/FM stereo radio with door mounted speakers.

Popular options include a passenger side air-bag, a keyless entry system, a Ford JBL Audio System, a rear air-suspension and an Insta-Clear windshield for fast defrosting.

The 1992 Crown Victoria is available in standard, LX and Touring Sedan models.
